VILLAGE FAIR AND INCHLING FOR FOREST THEATER SOON

REVIVAL of one of the Forest Theater's most popular productions of past years, to be followed by a village fair in the theater grounds which will bring Carmelites together for congenial entertainment after the "summer rush" is over are now being planned by the board of directors of the world-famed outdoor theater, it was announced this week. "Inchling," the beautiful children's play written by a Carmelite, the late "Rem" Remsen, has been decided upon for an end-of-summer production, late in August. The director will be Byington Ford, who produced "Inchling" with great success at Douglas Schools. Joint sponsors of the enterprise are the Forest Theater and the Community Players.

The present plan is for the production of "Inchling" to be followed by the fair, arrangements for which are in the hands of three members of the Forest Theater board of directors, Henry Dickinson, E. A. H. Watson and Hal Garrott. It will be a hilarious celebration of the end of summer, in the tradition of Harvest Festivals of old, and will be carried off in an atmosphere of fun and informality which will attract young and old. By the joint venture the board hopes to realize funds enough to pay off the most pressing obligations of the theater.

School Trustees to Review Year's Budget

At the next regular meeting of Sunset school board of trustees, Thursday evening, Aug. 6 at 7:45 at the school, the year's proposed budget will be discussed in public hearing. The budget was made up last spring, prior to the trustee election and the closing of school, and has passed the scrutiny of County Superintendent of Schools J. G. Force. The items will be discussed and explained for the benefit of taxpayers and other interested citizens.

Sapero on Vacation, Trial Is Postponed

Tentatively set for Tuesday, the trial of Arthur Gambarosi of San Francico, who plead not guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, has been continued, and will probably be set for some time after Aug. 8, according to City Judge George L. Wood. Gambarosi was arrested early the morning of July 19. The postponement was necessary because K. Y. Sapero, who is deputy district attorney for the peninsula and would prosecute the case, is now away on vacation, and no other prosecutor is available in the district attorney's office.

Attorney for the defense is J. Shelburn Robison, partner of Argyll Campbell.

Mrs. J. A. Manning and her children have arrived from Fresno for their regular summer stay, and will remain until the first week in September.

— Action! —

CONSTRUCTION OF FIREHOUSE WILL BE STARTED AT ONCE

DECISION to proceed at once with the building of the firehouse was reached by members of the city council at an informal conference Wednesday afternoon, when it was disclosed that the delay has been caused by the fact that skilled labor has been swept from the WPA rolls by the return of better times. Stung by public criticism of unfinished projects, a new WPA regulation directs that a project shall not be started unless the sponsor agrees to carry it through to completion in case WPA cannot furnish all the craftsmen required. The Monterey county WPA headquarters has stood ready for a number of weeks to supply the unskilled labor for the earlier stages of the building, but until the council reached unanimous agreement to guarantee completion of the project, no action could be taken.

In a statement just released to the press, the council said:

"After considerable study, the council is satisfied that enough money can be taken from the general fund to employed such skilled men as WPA cannot furnish without serious depletion of the fund."

It was recalled that a considerable amount was allowed for contingencies when the amount of the firehouse bond issue was fixed at $12,000. The use of all or a considerable portion of the contingency allotment will decrease the amount that it may be necessary to expend from the general fund.

Music Hath Charms To Sooth Violators; No Arrests Made

A Bach Festival means peace and quiet for Carmel, and an end to police problems. During the past week, despite the large number of visitors here to attend the concerts, not a single arrest was made for traffic or other violations. In contrast are the preceding six weeks, which established an all-time record for police activity.

Only disturbance of the week's serenity was the tendency of earnest Festival musicians toward nocturnal rehearsals, and some neighbors were reported to find the daylight practise a bit wearing. But for the most part the village accepted this in good spirit. At least, no complaints were made to the police.

Roosevelt Club To Bring Speaker

Committees appointed at the recent preliminary organization meeting of the Carmel Roosevelt club have been busy this week preparing for a large open meeting, at which permanent organization will be effected, and at which a forceful speaker will be presented to discuss the issues of the coming presidential campaign. A speaker has been tentatively decided upon, but pending definite word from him as to what dates he has open, the meeting cannot be definitely announced, according to Fred Bechdolt, chairman. Numerous inquiries have been received as to plans of the club, and the announcement of the next meeting will be made in plenty of time so that all who wish to can plan to attend. Heads of the various committees are to meet within the next few days to complete arrangements.

No One Injured In Crash of Automobiles

No one was injured, but two cars were considerably bashed up in an intersection crash at the corner of Eighth and Monte Verde Sunday afternoon. Miss Mary Mayer of San Francisco, driving a Packard north on Monte Verde, skidded 26 feet to avoid the impact, and 19 feet after the crash, according to the police, who investigated. Miss Rhoda Marie Sherwood of Monterey was driving west on Eighth street. The cars came to rest with their front fenders engaged and pointing north.

UNCLE OF MRS. NARVAEZ DIES

Don Juan Francisco Dana, the picturesque scion of old California families who died in Santa Barbara Tuesday at the age of 98, was an uncle of Mrs. L. P. Narvaez of Carmel. Her father was a brother of Don Juan..

WORKING ON TENNIS COURTS

The street department this week is concentrating most of its men and equipment on the site of the new tennis courts. All trees and stumps have been removed and the ground is being scraped and graded. Actual work on the courts will start as soon as the area is completely leveled off.

WOOD CARVER INJURED

Dudley Carter, Carmel wood sculptor, received scratches, and Dick Johnson, who also works in wood, was cut sufficiently to require a physician's attention when the cars both were driving met with force and violence on Camino del Monte at San Marcos road Tuesday evening. Johnson was able to drive away under his own power, but the Carter car was too badly crippled to proceed.

Byington Ford In New Dramatic Role, Carries Off Stellar Honors

BYINGTON FORD, defense attorney of "Chicago," public prosecutor in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," local dramatic productions, played a new role before a capacity house in city court this week, when he was cast as the defendant in one of the most sensational trials in Carmel's history. Mr. Ford was acquitted Monday by a jury of his peers, who decided in 15 minutes, after hearing all the evidence, that Mr. Ford was not driving while intoxicated, or was not intoxicated while driving, early the morning of July 5. Mr. Ford admitted to five drinks imbibed from noon of the holiday until the following midnight, and he did not deny having driven his car, but the jury was of the opinion that the two circumstances had no bearing upon each other.

One by one the roll of the five drinks was called; beginning with the testimony of Joe Minotto, Del Monte Hotel waiter, who could recall no beverage but Kalso water imbibed by Mr. Ford in the Bali room that night; continuing with the statement of Miss Alice Marie Byington of San Francisco, one of two cousins whom the defendant was entertaining on the fateful day, that Mr. Ford had had three drinks, a couple of cocktails at home and an 'old-fashioned" at Del Monte; to which the other cousin, Mrs. Lucile Schleuter of Los Angeles, added a gin fizz which she remembered seeing Mr. Ford consume at the home of his sister, Mrs. S. F. B. Morse. And Mr. Ford himself, on the witness stand, recalled a highball with which he had begun the day.

Mr. Ford contended that at no time during the day and evening had he been intoxicated. So did the impressive list of defense witnesses: William A. Parker, maitre de'Hotel at Del Monte, who talked with Mr. Ford about 1 o'clock in the morning, saw no evidences of intoxication; Carl Stanley, manager of Del Monte, who occupied a table adjoining Mr. Ford's in the Bali room and said that no member of the party was under the influence of liquor; the waiter who served them and said the three left the hotel, sober, at 1:30; H. E. Chapman, armed and deputized guard employed as outside man at the hotel, who opened the door of Mr. Ford's car when he left the hotel, sober; Dr. Hugh Dormody, who joined the party briefly, danced with the two ladies, and said that all were in a state of total sobriety; Argyll Campbell, who had a telephone conversation with the defendant on the subject of bail between 2 and 3 the morning of the arrest, said that he was perfectly coherent, and cold sober about an hour later when he saw him face to face.

On the other hand, three members of the police department, Dr. John R. Gray and a citizen witness, Paul Stoney, were of the opinion that Mr. Ford's condition on the controversial night was one of considerable intoxication. They were unable to controvert the fact that, whatever the defendant's condition, he was driving with extreme caution, well within the speed limit, and that he reached the haven of his own garage without hitting anything. The defense attorney, W. C. Thiele of Salinas, was able to make considerable of a point of the fact that Mr. Ford's "constitutional rights" were not fully observed, in that, although taken by the police to the home of Judge George L. Wood, the magistrate before whom the case was tried, his bail was not fixed at that time by the judge.

Mr. Thiele also introduced a bit of purest courtroom hooey into the case in hinting at a "sinister motive" be-

BUILDING FIGURES IN CARMEL SET NEW ALL-TIME RECORD WITH $56,157 THIS MONTH

SHOWING no signs of abating, building activity in Carmel reached a new high during the month of July, with a total of $56,157.64 in new construction started this month, according to figures compiled in the office of B. W. Adams, city inspector. Last month the total was only $13,617.55; and the figures of July, 1935, were $15,990.

The total for the first six months of 1936, $126,297.12, was augmented to $179,454.76 by the July figures. The total for the entire year of 1935 was $196,500, only about $17,000 in excess of the first seven months of this year.

Eighteen permits were issued during the month just closing, largest of which was for the $30,000 apartment house being built by Mrs. Ethel P. Young near the corner of Monte Verde and Ocean. A second apartment building is that being built by Byron G. Newell at Dolores and Eighth, to cost about $5000.

The total is swelled by a number of small homes started during the month; as follows: Charles H. Foster, Torres between Third and Fourth; Katherine Fisk, Forest Road and Mountain View; Earl B. Working, Eleventh and San Carlos; Mrs. Minnie Hepler, Junipero between Seventh and Eighth; and Marion Karr, Lincoln between Tenth and Eleventh.

Resumption of the boiler room project at Sunset school resulted in the issuing of a building permit for $2873.

Among the repair, alteration, modernization and other smaller projects begun during the month are the following:

Garage for Albert Van Houtte, Dolores between Tenth and Eleventh; garage for Maynard McIntire, Palou; additions, Mrs. J. M. Storrow, Lincoln and Eighth; tool shed, James Thoburn, Lincoln and Tenth; additions, Harry Hilbert, Santa Fe near Mountain View; addition, Halldis Stabell, Mission between Eleventh and Twelfth; concrete garage, Marion S. Karr, Lincoln near Eleventh; addition of shower bath, Mary M. Phelps, San Carlos near Twelfth; J. Williams, storage room, Junipero and Third; frame garage, Marion S. Karr, Lincoln between Tenth and Eleventh.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. George Talant and Miss Eda Sherman, all of San Francisco, spent the week-end at San Clemente ranch.

Monterey County Gets $34,665 Vehicle Tax

Monterey county, with a total of 24,724 motor vehicles registered in the first six months of this year, will obtain $34,665.41 for local road building and maintenance of the present system.

The value of each Monterey county vehicle registration in terms of road development here amounts to $1.402.

Considering how fine this railroad transportation is nowadays, you can't travel any cheaper. Fares lowest in history—substantial savings on round trip tickets. So why not take the train? It's safer. It's more dependable.

You can't beat the improved travel comfort in coaches and sleeping cars. It's a good thing movies don't have such restful seats—most folks would sure fall asleep.

Ever hear about the Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight? It's a great convenience to shippers and receivers alike. Western railroads pick up at the door, ship by fast freight, and deliver to consignee's door.

Railroad trains are running on faster schedules these days. Seems like the iron horse wants to show these new streamlined diesels that he can step out, too. Both passenger and freight schedules have been speeded up.

What's more, the railroads believe in "safety first." Last year not one passenger was killed in a train accident on western railroads.

Talk to your local railroad agent. He's full of information about traveling and shipping.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

Pistol Club Shoots Second Match With Denver Via Long-Distance

AT the local pistol range Sunday morning the Carmel team shot its scores for a long distance match over the police course, slow, timed and rapid fire at 25 yards. At the same time, in Denver, the pistol team of the Colorado Rifle club was shooting its part of the same match. At the conclusion of the shooting each team forwarded its scores to the other.

The total score of the Carmel team in this match was 1304 points, which shows an improvement of 39 points over the last match with the Colorado shooters. In that previous match the Denver team won by a score of 1307 to 1265 for Carmel. Last Sunday's indiivdual scores are given below:

	Slow	Timed	Rapid	Tot.
L. Williams	94	91	84	269
H. Martin	97	90	80	267
C. Stamper	91	87	82	260
E. Griffen	93	85	80	258
J. Murray	90	85	75	250
Total, 1st five				1304
G. Carter	91	74	79	244
D. Ball	94	79	66	239

The next match planned by the club will be a week from next Sunday, on Aug. 9. This shoot will be similar to the one held on June 28. Everyone had such a good time at that previous match that it was decided to make these team shoots within the club a regular feature. Two evenly matched teams will be picked at the range. The course of fire will be 20 shots, slow fire at 25 yards, 9 a. m. till noon. The prize for members of the winning team will be free eats at the next club meeting. All members are urged to be on hand. Their attention is called to the fact that the meeting night has been changed to the second Tuesday of each month, the next meeting being on Aug. 11.

Concert Pianist Here for Rest and Study

Staying for two months at Carmel Inn is Englande Estes, concert pianist of Fort Worth, Texas, who has come here for practise and study. Miss Estes made her concert debut in New York in 1932, and since that time she has toured the southern states appearing as soloist with various orchestras and guest artist with chamber music ensembles. She was an artist pupil of Percy Grainger.

Democrats Nudge Republican Voters

With the narrowest margin of difference in history between the two parties, Carmel, the Republican stronghold, now has only 92 more registered Republicans than Democrats, it was disclosed this week when County Clerk C. F. Joy completed the tabulation of registration for the August primaries. There are now 742 Republicans, 650 Democrats in the village; the former having gained 20 since the register closed in April, the latter 25. Fifty-two voters "declined to state" or belong to minority parties, bringing the total of qualified voters to 1444, largest in Carmel's history.

Further spice of uncertainty is added to the close contest, because of the fact that friends of Ellis E. Patterson circulated quietly, a few days before the registrations closed, the suggestion that the surest way to re-elect Patterson would be for his Democratic supporters to change their registration to Republican, to assure him victory at the primaries. A number of Democrats are known to have changed their registration for this purpose.

In 1934, Hoover received 535 votes in Carmel, Roosevelt, 405; a difference of 130. It looks as if the party that gets out and works the hardest will have the fun of carrying the village for its candidate.

"Single Tax" Proposal To Be Combatted

A meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Realty Board and peninsula property owners, called for the evening of July 23 at Few Memorial Hall in Monterey, was attended by a disappointingly small number; a total of 16. Purpose of the gathering was to discuss methods of fighting the proposed repeal of the sales tax, with the "single tax" on property substituted for present more equable methods. Jack Beaumont presided as chairman and outlined the proposed campaign. Because of the small turnout, no organization was perfected at that time, but efforts will be made to interest a larger number of people for the next session. J. L. Schroeder attended from Carmel.

"Old Curiosity Shop" Will Open Tonight at Filmarte Theater

ONE of the most important films to come out of England this year is "Old Curiosity Shop," opening tonight at the Filmarte and closing with Sunday night's double bill. Adapted from the famous novel of Charles Dickens, produced with taste and skill in the very locale where he placed his Little Nell, Dick Swiveller, Mrs. Jarley, Kit and Barbara, the malignant Daniel Quilp and all the other deathless characters of the story, the filming of "Old Curiosity Shop" marks another milestone in the progress of the British cinema. There will be the usual Saturday bargain matinee.

Opening Sunday afternoon and playing as the second feature on Sunday night's double bill will be the strange and fascinating "Hei Tiki" (love charm), made in New Zealand among the Maoris. A dramatic story is laid against a background of authentic native life, forming one of the season's most interesting offerings. The film will also be shown Monday and Tuesday nights.

Next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 5 and 6, the Filmarte will outdo itself with the American premiere of one of the latest Swedish films, "Walpurgis Night," profusely supplied with English dialogue titles. The Swedes have long been noted for their fine films, but want of English screen titles has hitherto rendered it impracticable to show them in America except in Swedish communities or in large cities with substantial Swedish population. By a lucky series of "breaks" the Filmarte is enabled to show "Walpurgis Night", brought into this country by a San Francisco importer, ahead of any other theater in America. The management will be grateful for short reviews, to be sent to the theater and transmitted to the importerer of the film for his guidance in editing and cutting the film for general use in this country.

hind the "persecution" of Mr. Ford by the police.

Deputy District Attorney K. Y. Sapero conducted the prosecution, calling to the stand Officer Roy Fraties, who arrested Mr. Ford, followed him to his home after first having his attention attracted by the "erratic" course of his car coming down Ocean avenue from about Mission; which "winding" path was followed all the way to the Ford home at Eleventh and Carmelo, according to the officer. His statements were corroborated by Paul Stoney who was riding along for company on the officer's patrol that night. Officer Earl Wermuth told of seeing the defendant at the home of Dr. John R. Gray shortly after the arrest, said that he was "glassy-eyed" and "weaving".

Police Chief Robert A. Norton, called into the case soon after the arrest, stated his opinion that the defendant was indubitably intoxicated. Dr. Gray, the physician before whom the defendant was taken for a sobriety test, was a bit flippant in his answers to the lawyers' questions, and was not of much help to the prosecution in building up a case. He detected the smell of liquor on the breath of the defendant, admitted a certain lack of coordination, thought Mr. Ford's eyes were better described as "starey" than as "glassy." He identified Mrs. Schleuter and Miss Byington as having accompanied the party on the nocturnal visit to his home, but refused to answer Mr. Thiele's question as to whether they had been intoxi- up late the night before, but his cated at the time. He waved coyly to the two girls as he left the stand.

The defense attorney made considerable of a point of asking witnesses about the condition of the two girls, as the police had testified that both showed the effects of drinking, whereas the two witnesses themselves declared that Mrs. Schleuter had had no drinks whatsoever on that day and evening, and Miss Byington only four. It was the lawyer's intention to show that if the police were mistaken as to the condition of the ladies, the results of their observation of Mr. Ford might also be questioned. Chief Norton, however, clung to his statement that both Mrs. Schleuter and Miss Byington had been drinking. As to the latter, he said, he first suspected that something was wrong when she dusted off the front of his uniform with a whiskbroom at Monterey police station. Just how and when the whiskbroom became one of the props in the drama was not made clear.

Mr. Thiele made the unexpected move of taking the witness stand himself to testify on behalf of his client. This was relative to a conversation he had with Officer Fraties with Mr. Sapero present as a witness in the city hall the day he went into court to plead not guilty for Mr. Ford. He declared that the officer had said his attention was called to Mr. Ford's car when it came to a stop at the Mission stop sign, and by the "slow and cautious" manner of its progress. Fraties categorically denied that the conversation took this form. He insisted that he had not mentioned the Mission stop sign, and that he had told the lawyer the course of the car was "very erratic."

To the delight of the spectators, Fraties either by brilliant inspiration or because he had not recalled it before, at this point flung a bomb shell. At the time of this conversation, he alleged, Thiele had said: "I don't see why the man doesn't pay his fine and get it over with."

Mr. Ford's long dramatic training stood him in good stead when he took the stand in his own defense. His answers were terse and to the point, although he interjected a few comments that a playwright would never let his witnesses get away with.

"I don't pretend that I don't take a drink, because I do," the defendant began, as a preliminary to telling in his own way the story of how he celebrated the Fourth. He began the day very tired, because he had been cousins were visiting him, and he wanted to "give them a whirl." He drove them up the valley, stopping at the Morse ranch; out to the Highlands, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. William Bensberg through the dinner hour, but had no drinks, then home, where the cocktails were mixed and consumed, then to Del Monte to dine and dance, then back to Carmel, where the arrest was made about 2 o'clock in the morning.

"What was your appearance, neat or sloppy?" asked his lawyer, referring to the testimony of one of the officers who had used the latter adjective to describe Mr. Ford.

"Well," answered the witness. "I had my dinner clothes on; and I thought I looked all right." Minute questioning tended to bring out the defendant's clear recollection of all events of the day and evening.

Mr. Thiele made a long and dramatic address to the jury, following the briefer summing up of the prosecution's evidence by Mr. Sapero. He described the "filthy, lousy" jail at Monterey, in which his client had almost been incarcerated, in terms indicating that neither Mr. Ford or any other citizen should ever be impounded there. He traced the history of democracy back to the Roman Empire, pausing at way points to describe the plight of citizens persecuted as Mr. Ford was, ended with the interesting theory that all citizens were not equal before the law; that one of Mr. Ford's standing was entitled to more considerating than some "bum."

The trial opened Friday, and almost the entire morning was consumed in selecting a jury. The final roster included Fred Leidig, ultimately the foreman who read the not-guilty verdict; Fremont O. Ballou, Fritz Wurzmann, Mrs. Doris Haskell, Mrs. Eleanor W. Yates, Robert A. Doolittle, Talbert Josselyn, Henry F. Lund, Louis Ralston, F. H. Leslie, Courtland Arne and Glenna Peck Reed. Dismissed for cause were Corum Jackson, William P. Silva, Kenneth C. Goold and F. W. Haasis. The prosecution exercised its right of pre-emptory challenge on Mrs. Merle Hilbert, Mrs. Rene Wilson Moore, Mrs. R. E. Brownell, E. H. Chew, Earl F. Ammerman. The defense excused Paul C. Prince, Harry S. Nye and W. G. Billinger. After continuing all day Friday, the case was carried over to Monday, recessed at noon, and the verdict was returned shortly after 1:30 Monday afternoon.

PACIFIC GROVE

MESDAMES W. L. Davis and Rose E. Durnell were hostesses last week at a joint birthday dance in honor of their daughters, Miss Olivia Davis and Miss Frances Durnell, who celebrate their advent into the world on the same day. The Grenadier's hall was the scene of the merry-making, and the guests included Misses Ruth Down, Jean Battelle, Frances Hodges, Frances Parker, Mary Ann Leininger, Jeanne Randol, Thelma Baxter, Mildred Rose, Edith Snyder, Marie Beitz, Frances Durnell, Olivia Davis, Thelma Philbrick, Norma Agard, Barbara Ansell, La Verne Schmadeke, Harriet Holman; and Messrs. Jim McGowan, De Los Bagby, Leonard Ward, Kenneth Ward, Evans Lee, Ernest Watson, Verne Williams, Vernon Baxter, Tommy Walters, Fred McComish, Charles Kernes, Lewis Fitzsimmons, Sid Bowen, Bill Crowley, Bill McLean, Bill Tumbleson, Bob King, Royce Clemens, Charles Lewis, C. B. Ward, Clifford Coleman and Edmund Hurlbutt.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wingard entertained a number of their friends at their home after the group had played pool at the Congregational church. Delicious refreshments were served to the following pool enthusiasts: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Duerr, Mr. and Mrs. Chase Proper, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Woodard, Mr. and Mrs. William Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Mack and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Copsey.

Miss Edith Snyder of Honolulu is the house guest of Miss Thelma Baxter. The two became acquainted when Miss Baxter lived in Honolulu. Miss Snyder intends to remain with Miss Baxter until September.

Miss Jeanne Randol of Carmel had as her guest last week Miss Mary Anne Leininger of Oklahoma. Miss Leininger has many friends in the Grove, having attended high school there. Miss Leininger will join her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Leininger, in Los Angeles, where they have been visiting.

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Workman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mishler spent several days during the first part of this week camping at Big Sur.

Delighting their friends of Pacific Grove, Mrs. Pearle Walton and Miss Marion Walton visited in the Grove during the first part of this week. Mrs. Walton was English instructor in the high school earlier in the year and Miss Marion attended school here. The Waltons have been staying at their summer home in Los Altos for the past two months. They stayed at the homes of Miss Mildred Cashin and Miss Doris Cook during their sojourn here.

On Monday evening Miss Frances Hodges was feted on the occasion of her birthday at a dinner given at the Hodges home on Pine avenue. Those gathered to congratulate Miss Hodges over tempting viands were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dinkel, aunt and uncle of Miss Hodges; Miss Melba Hodges, Messrs. Ronald Hodges and Fred McComish, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Hodges. Later in the evening, a group gathered together by Misses Jean Battelle and Olivia Davis surprised Miss Hodges thoroughly by their appearance and proceeded to congratulate her and enjoy the evening in games and dancing and refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Gamble entertained for their guest, Miss Edith Gamble of Lafayette, Ind., at a delightful party, Wednesday evening. Those bidden to meet Miss Gamble included: Mr. and Mrs. V. O. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Safford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mishler, and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Smith.

California Youths In Presidio Review

Over 1200 California youths, including some from Carmel, passed in review last week before Major General George H. Simonds, newly-appointed commanding general, Ninth Corps Area, at a colorful military ceremony honoring the general, who is on an inspection tour of the Civilian Training Camps here.

Units passing in review included the C.M.T.C. Regiment and the R.O.T.C. Battalion, both under the temporary command of Colonel Byron W. Allen, infantry reserve, senior reserve officer present at the camps.

Mrs. V. C. Bailey of Long Beach has arrived to spend a month here in a house on north Dolores.

McGaw and Knox Conclude Play Readings With "Victoria Regina"

BALDWIN McGAW and Emma Knox brilliantly concluded their series of play-readings at the Filmarte Tuesday evening with a strikingly fine interpretation of "Victoria Regina", and before a gratifyingly large house. This interesting historical play is written in 30 "chapters" rather than acts, and the McGaws selected 10 of the more effective episodes for their presentation. They were interested, in comparing their cutting with that used by Helen Hayes for her New York production of the play, to find that she had chosen eight of the same chapters in her version.

Miss Knox carried the heavier portion of the play, which presents so graphically the character of the great British queen. In earlier scenes she was a demure and unsophisticated girl, typical product of a strict and simple British upbringing. She wore black velvet, hooped and cut to expose a pair of lovely shoulders. Her golden hair was drawn smooth and close over her ears, carried coronet fashion over the crown. By gradual transition the character of Victoria was shown to change, from naive and thoughtless delight in her unlimited power, to a realization of the responsibilities of statecraft, to a mellow and intelligent maturity, to old age, with just a trace of the early naivety in the old lady's satisfaction at the great tribute paid to her by her people on her diamond jubilee.

Mr. McGaw gave a superb characterization of Albert, the Prince Consort. He wore a handsome court costume, and spoke with a delightful hint of German accent. His Albert was gentle, sensitive and altogether loveable. Most effectively the two presented the gentle clash between the characters of Albert and Victoria, the latter rather smugly insisting on her right to rule even her husband, the prince not so much resenting her girlish arrogance as pleading for freedom to use his hands and brain for her and for his adopted country. That his fine manliness finally won both the confidence and dependence of his sovereign-wife was indicated in the episode in which she leaned upon his wisdom and discernment in dealing with an international crisis.

Miss Knox used an interesting technique in indicating Victoria aging. Without the props, lighting and make-up which contribute so much to the illusion of the stage, a deepening of the voice and more measured enunciation contrived very well to suggest the march of the years.

Long Dramatic Drought In Carmel To End With "The Circle" Aug. 17

AFTER a week's holiday during the Bach Festival, the cast of "The Circle" is again hard at work this week. Because of the break in the rehearsal period, the production, originally planned for Aug. 8, has been postponed until Monday evening, Aug. 17, when it will be substituted for the regular weekly meeting of Clay Otto's dramatic seminar, conducted under the adult education program of the state.

An unusually long rehearsal period has been given to the Somerset Maugham play, and it is believed that the results will be evident in the performance. The subtleties of the play require extra polishing for the emphasis of its fine points. It is so perfectly written that every line counts and should receive full value, in the opinion of George Marion, the great actor and director of the legitimate stage and screen, who is coaching the players. In the professional version, the play was presented with "all-star" casts, so well-balanced and equaly important are the various parts.

Marion Boke Todd will be seen in the role of the frivolous "Lady Kitty," and her daughter-in-law, "Elizabeth," whose life-experience rounds out "the circle" begun by the older generation, is played by Elizabeth Todd. Lloyd Weer, as "Clive Cheney", has one of the richest roles of the many he has played; the wronged husband, who in 30 years, may have mellowed, but still retains a spark of refined malice against the couple who changed the course of his life. As "Lord Porteous," the Lothario of the older generation, Ross C. Miller is a grumpy and disillusioned peer for whom the course of true love has proved none too smooth.

Dr. W. B. Williams plays a new type of role for him, as the precise and pedantic "Arnold Cheney," equally interested in politics and interior decoration, husband of the charming Elizabeth. The latter's young lover, Teddy Luton, is Frank Work of Pacific Grove, a new "juvenile" in local productions, and a distinct acquisition. Thelma B. Miller plays a small part as that convenient dramatic adjunct, a "family friend," to whom, on behalf of the audience, the background of the drama is told.

The play will be presented at Sunset auditorium, with very simple settings, and a minimum of expense. While other Monday night performances at the dramatic seminar have been free and more or less invitational, it will be necessary to charge admission to "The Circle," as the cost of royalty and auditorium rental must be met. The price will be low, however, as a large attendance is desired.

Mrs. L. M. Carver Gets News of Niece's Travels

Mrs. L. M. Carver of Third and Junipero, who has recently come here to live from Berkeley, is receiving interesting travel-letters from her niece, Mrs. Howard Bray of San Francisco. Mrs. Bray was one of 15 women high school teachers chosen to go on a "good will tour" sponsored by the Japanese Travel Bureau. She teaches English and gym in the Girls' High School of San Francisco.

The 15 favored teachers were selected from the four western consular districts, and the California communities represented were San Francisco, Sacramento, Stockton, Oakland, Alameda, Fresno and Los Angeles. The party sailed July 1 on the Chichibu Maru and will start home Aug. 21 after visiting all the chief cities of Japan, and Korea and Manchuria. In a letter written several days before the ship reached Japan, Mrs. Bray commented particularly on the fine service and the effort made by all the Japanese attendants to see that their guests were happy as well as comfortable.

Mr. and Mrs. Thom Neikirk have returned from Palo Alto where they enjoyed a fortnight's vacation.

Hollywood Stars at Del Monte Lodge Dance

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Morris and Oliver Hardy were among the guests at the weekly dinner dance held Sunday evening at Del Monte Lodge, adding a touch of Hollywood glamour to the assemblage, which included:

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Tanner of New York City, Miss Jane O. Tanner, Mr. Frederick C. Tanner, Jr., Mr. Frederick Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winslow, Miss Eleanor Morehead, Miss Nancy Cocke, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Work, Jr., Miss Rosalie Leventritt, Bud Todd, Fred Godwin, Dr. Hugh Dormody, Victor Leventritt, J. K. Casad, Mrs. Dorothy Fauntleroy and Don Garibaldi.

Mrs. Marian Boke Todd returned Monday after visiting in San Francisco for several days.

Russell Back From Southern Campaign Tour

Henry Potter Russell has returned to his Carmel Valley ranch after an extended campaign tour in the southern portion of the assembly district. He is a Republican candidate for the assembly. Mrs. Russell, who has been in San Francisco for several days, returned home Wednesday.

"Love" Is Subject of Christian Science Text

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, Aug. 2, on the subject, "Love."

The Golden Text will be: "He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love" (I. John 4: 8). Bible selections will include the following passage from John 3: 16, 17: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included.

League of Women Voters' President To Make Home Here for Five Months

FOR the next five months Carmel will be the headquarters of the California League of Women Voters, while Mrs. Paul Eliel, president of the state organization, is temporarily domiciled here. A fugitive from a torn-up household, while the family residence is in the process of being transferred from Berkeley to Palo Alto, Mrs. Eliel decided upon this village as a likely spot to spend the intervening months. Her two pretty little daughters, Eleanor and Jean, will be entered in Sunset school with the opening of the fall term at the end of August. They are occupying the Adams house on Carmelo.

The family is moving because Mr. Eliel is to head the new department of industrial relations being established at Stanford. They are building a home on the Stanford campus, and in the meantime Mr. Eliel is to spend three months in the east, seeking material and building up a library preparatory to inaugurating his professorial work. For the first term or two, his task will be largely administrative.

Mrs. Eliel is well known here through frequent visits, social and on League affairs. She will be a welcome addition to the Monterey County League, and has been asked by the president, Mrs. Carl Voss, to "sit in" on meetings of the executive board.

Young and full of wholesome vitality, Mrs. Eliel is not the "club woman" type. The League is the only woman's organization with which she is affiliated, and she gives a vast amount of time to its affairs only because she feels that it is an organization which has valuable accomplishments to its credit, and because it fills a very definite need.

"From some quarters, now that we are in the heat of a political campaign, we are hearing that there is 'no place' for non-partisan women's organizations, and that women would do better to work within the political parties," said Mrs. Eliel. "On the contrary, I feel that we serve a very definite purpose as a sort of 'watch-dog' organization for which politicians of all parties have a very wholesome respect. As an example; here in California we make a point of having representatives at all meetings of the state personnel board. Results have shown that it is a very wholesome influence to have disinterested, non-partisan women right there taking notes of everything that goes on. The League is in a position to clarify many issues, particularly in non-partisan elections such as we have here in California, for school trustees, city and county officials. Emphasizing issues and not personalities, we can help to foster an intelligent interest in the problems of government. Of course our members are expected to work within their parties as well, and to participate in all the duties of citizenship."

Sincerity and Honesty Demanded, Says Baker

A job on the relief line, or steady employment? That in the opinion of Alonzo L. Baker, who is running for congress in this district on the Republican ticket, will have to be decided by the voters this November.

"The day of ballyhoo and applesauce is over," Baker stressed here. "After four years of experimentation, the people are demanding sincerity and honesty. And neither do do the voters want the old-time politician with half-baked promises that are never carried out."

Baker is waging the battle for congress on a progressive platform. He has at the request of hundreds of the leading Republicans consented to run for office.

Founder of Folk Dance Society, Gene Gowing, Now at Highlands Inn

FOR the next two weeks, beginning Monday, a summer school of English folk dancing will be conducted at Highlands Inn by Gene Gowing, founder of the English Folk Dance Society of California, and a teacher of wide repute throughout Southern California. This is the third annual session of Mr. Gowing's summer classes, those of the two preceding years having been held at Bryce Canyon, Utah. Carmel was chosen this year as "an even more ideal spot" for the enterprise.

To introduce Mr. Gowing and his assistant, Miss Amy Gamble, to local people and to give an idea of his work, a party will be given at Highlands Inn tomorrow evening at 8:30 to which all who are interested are invited. A group of the pupils accompanying their master from Southern California will give an exhibition of the old English dances.

Because people of all ages can participate in and enjoy the traditional dances, parties will be given at the Inn on Tuesday and Friday evenings of both weeks the school is in session. On payment of a small fee, the visitors can not only enjoy watching the figures, but will be encouraged to join them. Explanatory lectures will be given.

About half a dozen of the visiting students will be with Mr. Gowing at Highlands Inn, and several others are to stay in Carmel.

Either guests at the Inn or other residents of Carmel and the peninsula may join the classes, which will meet daily. At 9:30 each morning the session will be devoted to country dancing; the 10:30 classes will be in morris dancing, and at 3 o'clock, sword dancing will be given. There will also be children's classes, for boys and girls from 8 to 14, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 2 o'clock.

LAST LICENSE DAY

The city tax and license department wishes to remind business people that today, July 31, is the last day on which business licenses can be paid without a penalty. After today unpaid licenses go delinquent.

Patterson Sees Joker In Plans

Assemblyman Ellis E. Patterson is devoting himself to preventing the saddling of heavy relief costs upon the counties of his district, according to the candidate for re-election.

"There are serious jokers concealed in the proposal of the state to turn over relief fund administration to county welfare departments," Patterson stated, "and it is my intention to call these jokers to the attention of supervisors before they act definitely to accept the state's proposal.

"The principal joker in the proposal is that administration costs will be transferred to the counties and will not be carried by the bond issue funds voted by the people of the state for the purpose.

"Not only will the counties be saddled with these costs, but another joker is that they will have to take over and pay for the expensive offices set up by the state administration, paying these costs out of tax funds raised within the county," Patterson declared.

"I have no objection to counties administering relief funds according to their respective local situations, but I do strenuously object to this plan which will require the levying of heavier taxes locally to carry the administration burden. This cost should be carried out of the state bond funds which the people voted for relief purposes," Patterson declared.

Final Concert at Carmel Mission Crowns Successful Week of Bach Festival

By THELMA B. MILLER

"IT WAS a great experience!" That is the verdict of Director Sascha Jacobinoff, of the impresarios, Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous, of more than a hundred people who participated in one way or another, and of the hundreds who attended the five concerts of Carmel's second annual Bach Festival. The Festival was a brilliant success, improving, as was to be hoped and expected, both in quality and attendance, from the fine start made last year.

The five concerts and the long weeks of preparation preceding them, taxed just about to the endurance point the faithful members of the orchestra and chorus, but found them keyed, at the last concert Sunday night at the Mission, to the point of one final, brilliant effort. From what inexhaustible fund of energy Jacobinoff draws remains a mystery to those who have watched him. Rehearsals continued all last week, despite the heavy concert schedule. If, as many auditors remarked, the work of the chorus was markedly better that last evening at the Mission than at the opening of the Festival, there was good reason for it. Further polishing, during the week, of the cantata "Jesu, Priceless Treasure," gave the chorus a feeling of perfect confidence both in reading and interpretation. In the last week the new cantata "A Stronghold Sure" was learned practically in its entirety. It speaks well for the Jacobinoff discipline and for the proficiency gained in work on the first cantata that the second was prepared in remarkably short order.

During the week the soloists, too, put in hours of strenuous rehearsal, with results which were apparent Sunday evening. A much more finished performance was given in the numbers repeated from the Monday evening concert. The various solos and ensembles of "A Stronghold Sure" are perhaps more intrinsically lovely than those of the other cantata. The melodic line of "Within my heart of hearts," the soprano aria, was beautifully suited to the lyric qualities of Rudolphine Radil's voice. In the duet which she sang with Radiana Pazmor the voices seemed to have an identical "value," while contrasting beautifully in timbre. The tenor and alto duet of Lawrence Strauss and Miss Pazmor was again a fine merging of tone and quality. The rare beauty of Noel Sullivan's voice was as noteworthy as the touching humility with which he offers his great musical gift. He achived fine contrasts, from the contemplative serenity of his recitativ to the triumphant animation of "Dir, Dir Jehovah."

The Agnus Dei from the B Minor mass brought into full play the rich organ tones of Miss Pazmor. For the Sanctus from the same work which the chorus was to have performed, but for which there was finally insufficient rehearsal time for proper polishing, were happily substituted the two selections which the string orchestra played so beautifully Tuesday evening, the Pastorale and the Air for the G string. This group was the perfect foil for the vocal music which preceded and followed it.

In restoring the historic roofline of Carmel Mission, the builders have conferred perfect acoustical properties upon the beautiful old church, and the music there was extraordinarily effective.

A spritely and expertly balanced reading of the third Brandenburg concerto in piano quintet arrangement was given at the Saturday evening performance by Jacobinoff, Hubert Sorenson, Abraham Weiss, Doretha Ulsh and Ralph Linsley. Though the performance was undoubtedly unconventional, it has given us a preliminary taste of a work which the orchestra may tackle for a major number at some later festival.

Our familiarity with and love for the Bach literature is increased by such devices as the repetition this year of two of the particularly popular works presented last year; the double violin concerto on Tuesday and on Saturday night, the E major concerto which Jacobinoff played as soloist. The work did not have quite the happy sparkle this year which Jacobinoff gave it last year, and for reasons easy enough to understand. The player, with his full schedule of day and night rehearsals, had taxed himself to a point at which he could not do himself full justice. There was an obvious divergence of opinion as to tempo between the soloist and the conductor, Bernard Callery, and between them there is no need to adjudicate. As Bach editors do not always agree as to the accepted tempo, so in interpretation, temperament and personal preference play a certain role, and Jacobinoff and Callery are of such obviously different natures that the contrast inevitably became apparent.

Mr. Strauss and Miss Pazmor offered the vocal portion of the Saturday program, the former giving an artistic and intelligent interpretation of an aria from Cantata 93, and Miss Pazmor a group of songs, accompanied by Ralph Linsley, and with Jacobinoff playing a violin obligato. The audience was not satisfied to release Miss Pazmor until she had given in her own individualistic and intimate fashion the little song, "Bist du Bei Mir", playing her own accompaniment.

Marion Moulin, the flutist, achieved a triumph, ably abetted by Pianist Douglas Thompson, in the E flat major sonata.

To lovers of piano music, the Thursday evening concert brought unalloyed satisfaction. Outside of Bach festivals opportunities to hear the three-piano concertos are extremely rare, and the performance of Olga Steeb, Creighton Pasmore and Victor Trerice in the big C major concerto was finished and expert. The pianos themselves, presented an art-moderne design in sharp lines and angles against the neutral curtains, and oddly enough, the music issuing from them was not of the overwhelming volume one might expect—or fear—but noteworthy for the delicacy which the battery of potential sound was kept under control.

With the exception of an interesting C minor caprice, Miss Steeb kept to familiar paths in the numbers she selected for her solo group. Perhaps the week's flood of music kept us from realizing fully just what a privilege it was to have this justly popular and musically intelligent artist with us. Her group was a flawless little concert in itself, indicating a pianistic touch particularly well suited to the intricacies of Bach; an absorption with the poetic beauties of flowing, interwoven melodies no less than with the puzzles to be solved among contrapuntal patterns.

Miss Jeannette McKelvie of Pebble Beach went to San Francisco Monday to visit with friends for several days.

Parents of Students Rest on Peninsula

Many parents of boys and girls attending Douglas summer camps in Del Monte forest have taken advantage of their presence here to rest for a few days on the peninsula while visiting their offspring. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gordon of San Marino came to visit their daughter Zelda and plan a short trip to San Francisco before returning south. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Frederick Jr., have been shown points of interest by their daughter, Lucille. Alice Lathrop, who flew out from Ohio in order to arrive in time for the opening of camp, has been joined by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lathrop, who have been visiting in the eastern state. Mr. and Mrs. B. J. James of Beverly Hills came up to join their daughter, Velma June McCurdy, on her 15th birthday. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Reidsma of Los Angeles came over the week-end to see their daughter, Gloria. Peggy Turner received a visit from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd P. Turner of Pasadena.

Joseph Staniford is visiting in San Francisco for a week.

Greenroom Soon In New Dress

Oldtimers and newcomers alike will be interested to know that Arts and Crafts hall, one of Carmel's oldest buildings, and for years used as the Greenroom of the Playhouse, now called the Filmarte, is undergoing extensive renovation, preparatory to an active fall and winter. Its first use will be by E. Robert Schmitz, eminent pianist and teacher, who will conduct master classes in piano for six weeks beginning with Aug. 4. Thereafter the hall, tastefully redecorated in white and sage-green, and equipped with 125 salvaged Golden Bough chairs, relacquered and newly cushioned, will be given over to its usual activities as a rehearsal and recital hall and, as an annex to the Filmarte, for workshop plays.

For more than 30 years this building has remained a general assembly hall for Carmel. Plays and their rehearsals, musical and dance concerts, lectures, public mass meetings and elections, commedia del arte, dances and other social functions—every form of collective activity of Carmel has taken place in the old "Arts and Crafts" in the three decades of its existence.

All Aboard for South America

SHIPBOARD surroundings, a rhumba orchestra and a brand new dance, the Bambuco Colombiano, will be part of the show Saturday night, Aug. 8, when members of San Francisco's Latin American colony and their friends stage their annual celebration at Del Monte.

The entrance to the famous Bali Room will be done over to resemble the deck of the S. S. Santa Paula of the Grace line and captain of the ship for the occasion will be Hon. Oscar Gomez, consul general for Colombia at San Francisco, who will set its course straight for "Cartagena After Dark."

Descending the gangplank guests will at once find themselves transported to the colorful South American seaport. Every inch of the walls of the Bali Room will be covered with scenes of gay Cartagenan life.

The new dance will be presented by dark-haired senoritas to the exotic rhythm of Senor Ernesto Quintanilla and his "Los Artistas de la Rhumba" orchestra, which is being imported from Cartagena especially for the occasion.

The party will combine in one night all of the thrills of an ocean voyage to the tropics without the bother of packing or the least possibility of mal de mer.

Dr. J. P. Chance has returned from a few days' visit in Los Angeles.

Liesel Wurzmann Sends Greetings From Europe

Comes a message this week from Liesel Wurzmann, who is traveling in Europe this summer, with friendly greetings to all her Carmel friends, and assurance that she will be back this fall.

"Even though in Europe I enjoy The Pine Cone!" she writes. "So far I have only been in Holland, where everybody asks how Tilly Polak is; in France, where I saw only soldiers; in Switzerland, where everything seems expensive but peaceful; in Italy, the only country where I did not get cheated and everything seems too orderly and correct for Italy. But they have too much rain. Europe without their politicians seems to me just beautiful."

DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Monterey county Democrats will rally around the festive barbecue pit Sunday at El Toro Park, near Salinas. A countywide celebration is planned, to promote acquaintance among Democratic partisans, and to raise campaign funds. There will be informal entertainment and speaking.

CAUSE FOR PRIDE

The second annual Bach Festival is over, and it has been a success of a sort to cause civic entepreneurs all over the west to sit up and take notice. The sight of Sunset auditorium filled almost to capacity for four nights in one week, the audiences increasing each night to a sell-out on Saturday evening, and Carmel Mission on Sunday night with every seat occupied, is an eye-opener for skeptics. This is an enterprise which has captured the imagination of a larger public than Carmel alone can offer. Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous have had a large and inspired vision, and the practical ability to bring it brilliantly into realization. Carmel is fortunate in having them; very rarely is the finest musical taste combined with executive ability sufficient to operate such a tremendous enterprise smoothly. Through all the busy weeks leading up to the Festival, and last week with its myriad details and long hours of most difficult work, the serenity, good nature, and confident knowledge of what they were about displayed by these two women has been remarkable. Big projects of this sort have gone on the rocks and disintegrated just through fatigue and frazzled nerves on the part of the promoters. Efficiency has played as large a part in the success of the Bach Festival as artistic understanding.

Sara Bard Field and her husband, Col. Charles Erskine Scott Wood, were two among scores of distinguished people who came to Carmel for the Bach Festival. They have lived in California for nearly a quarter of a century. After the closing concert Sunday evening, they thoughtfully appraised the Festival as "the most important cultural event" of which they have known in that time.

Carmel has a peculiar attitude toward its only industry:—ministering to the traveling public. Behind the largely assumed indifference to "outsiders" is a more realistic recognition that the life of the community very largely depends upon a steady flow of visitors. Even many retired people who came here for peace and quiet are not above owning a few rental houses from which they hope to profit during the summer months. Whatever the attitude, it is a foregone conclusion that Carmel has, and will increasingly continue to have, a very definite attraction for vacationers and world-travelers. The sort of people who come here, whether they make themselves a nuisance or a civic asset, depends very largely on what we offer them. It is undesirable from every standpoint that Carmel should have a reputation as a place to "let down" and indulge in conduct of which the visitors would not be guilty in their own home towns.

Our own best protection is to fill the village to the saturation point with the sort of visitors who share the ideals of the best of the resident population. The people who come to Carmel because it is a Bach Festival town represent the cream. Many of them will, in time, remain longer than the week of the Festival. Their very presence contributes to an atmosphere which undesirable people do not find congenial. The Festival audiences last week were largely made up of interesting, intelligent-looking people, the sort one is proud to see in Carmel.

It is safe to say that Carmel has never sponsored a finer enterprise than the annual Bach Festival, nor one more worthy of continued support and encouragement.

In that new Manhattan planetarium, the public can get a slant on how things looked to Joe Louis in that fatal round.

PIANISSIMO

After the end of the dream a voice just beyond, where none may follow—light as a birch-leaf falling—or was it only faint shadow and a silken mist out there?

A dream the only pathway,
after the lightening of sleep
the veil for a moment fragile and almost cleared away.

What world came near when I knew not,
and stole by as I wondered?

Voice beyond,
you are mine, for all your vanishing!

—CHARLES BALLARD.

REBIRTH

I was weary of life and of living when first I came down to the sea.
Tired even of love and of loving, of being another's or free.
My heart was torn and jagged like rocks new-come to the shore,
Washed by each wave consuming, lulled by each rhythmic roar.
Now soothed is my soul and smooth is my heart, all washed by the surf as by tears,
Smooth as the rocks that have stood by the sea for thousands and thousands of years.

—LIBBY LEY.

Here's Looking at You

By LOIS COLLINS PALMER

THE pyracantha bushes in the parkway in front of the library are already set with orange berries, reminding us what a particularly satisfying shrub that is. The shapes it takes are always unconventional, almost perverse, and after blooming whitely in the spring, it bears its bright berries all the rest of the year. If not our "favorite shrub" it is surely one to be recommended for the consideration of every home gardner.

A LADY I used to know used to say, often, "The rose is my favorite of all flowers"—and then smirk, as if that were in some way remarkable. I suppose most of us are too fickle to have favorites in the garden. My own preference changes with every season, yea, with every five minutes in the garden. Wherever you look is some arrangement of beauty so arresting, so thrilling that the heart strains, trying to comprehend them all.

AND we gardeners are ungrateful as well as fickle. The quick-blooming annuals that so readily clothe a raw, new garden the first year, before the more permanent things are established;—how we rejoice at their cheerful color throwing warm shawls over the nakedness of virgin soil. The second year they "take the place"; the third year they begin to look like weeds; those petunias, calendulas, nasturtiums and the other bright, common things. They throttle the choicer flowers, but they also go on blooming year after year in old, neglected gardens. A nice discrimination is required; when to be merciless and when to be grateful.

WHATEVER the human contingent has thought of these foggy days, the gardens love them. The succulents, if they get any crisper, will burst from sheer exuberance. The perennials are blazing beacons through the mist. And as I look from the window, some white-blooming shrub, over-crowded and reaching leggily for the sky, bursts in frothy patches like spindrift against the fog.

WE baited our hook with a question last week, in our discussion of Monopoly, and here's is what we caught:

Editor The Pine Cone: Will you kindly tell your Lois Collins Palmer that the popular game of Monopoly is handled in Carmel by at least four dealers. We have a hard time keeping up with the demand, but manage to keep several sets on hand.

SPENCER'S HOUSE OF CARDS.

THE SCHOOL BUDGET

As a legal publication elsewhere in this paper appears the proposed budget of Sunset school district for the coming school year, together with the announcement that a public hearing on the budget will be held at the school at 7:45 the evening of Aug. 6. The public is advised to scrutinize the budget well, and those who are interested in hearing the proposed expenditures explained and discussed should make it a point to attend the meeting. It is the custom each year to publish the proposed budget, and to hold a discussion meeting before it is adopted .The time to protest or otherwise comment on the plans for school expenditures is at that time, not months later.

During the past year rumors of "waste and extravagance" at the school became current during the school year, many months after adoption of the budget. At one meeting of the board of trustees a taxpayer brought up the matter of school expenditures, indicating that the board had been in some way remiss in the methods by which it made up the budget. Such criticisms are "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial" later in the year. The only occasion on which they are timely and pertinent are at the annual "budget meeting," which last year was attended by reporters only.

The school trustees have asked for a total of $43,111.38 to operate the school next year. They will gladly explain each and every item to the taxpayers and to the public at large at the meeting at the school next Thursday evening, Aug. 6.

WHY NOT A WALL?

Under the stress and strain of summer traffic, a number of the hunks of granite which not very attractively define the center of the middle parking space on Ocean avenue have been uprooted. With their cement bases clinging to them like the roots of extracted teeth, they are even less beautiful in the recumbent state than they were upright. As repairs of some sort will have to be made, the thought suggests itself that this would be a good time to do a proper job. Many of the boulders are of such height that they catch the fenders and bumpers of cars attempting to park.

A more fitting substitute for the rigid boulders embedded in round blobs of cement would be a low wall, firmly embedded in order to resist the shocks of cars parking in. Parking in the center of Ocean is at an angle, and unless all the cars park at the same angle, considerable space is wasted, and parking space anywhere downtown is at a premium.

If an attractive chalkrock wall were built to separate the two lines of center parking, stalls could be marked off on the top of the wall, thus guiding the eye of the driver to the proper angle. That seems as inoffensive and inconspicuous a method as possible to achieve the dual results of keeping the two lines of cars from butting each other and of using the available space as economically as possible.

This paper will file in the wastebasket all stories submitted by candidates when they deal with personalities. However, we will be glad to print expressions of either side when they deal purely with issues.

Wheeler Home Setting for Drama

THE beautiful Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Wheeler provided the perfect setting for a dramatic entertainment given before about 100 guests Friday afternoon by Baldwin McGaw and Emma Knox, the charming and gifted pair whose series of Tuesday evening performances at the Filmarte have brought them wide recognition. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Karl Hoffman of New York City, her sister, Miss Laura Dierssen and Mrs. Vera Peck Millis.

The guests were seated in the patio, which opens to a lovely view of Carmel Bay and the Point. Here Mr. McGaw and Miss Knox gave a reading from the popular play, "End of Summer"; a play, which, if it poses a question, offers no very definite solution; of a woman who has lived frovolously and finds at her "end of summer", nothing left.

The play gave Miss Knox an interesting opportunity to interpret three contrasting feminine roles, representing the three generations of one family; the zestful old lady who achieves her ambition to live until the end of summer, the Ina Clair role of the woman who refuses to yield gracefully to the onslaughts of age, keeps young men dangling through the bait of a fat purse; her intelligent and attractive daughter, who unwillingly supplants her mother in the affection of some of her young swains. Mr. Knox effectively presented the masculine roles, scoring particularly as the calculating psychologist who attempts to feather his nest while keeping the favor of both mother and daughter.

Later in the afternoon the two actors gave from memory the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliette, a high window opening into the patio representing the balcony which beautifully framed the rose-bud beauty of Miss Knox, while Mr. McGaw, addressing his moving lines to her from the garden, was a satisfyingly handsome Romeo. The famous passages were most effectively interpreted, and the act has perhaps never had a lovelier setting than that afforded by the natural garden scene.

The guests went indoors for refreshments, Mrs. Rush Wallace and Miss Flora Stewart of Pebble Beach and Mrs. Arnold Waybur of Sacramento presiding at the tea-tables, while Betty and Virginia Wheeler, Martha and Jane Millis served.

Schmitz to Give Piano Scholarship

By open competition, to follow tryouts next week in the Green Room (the old Arts and Crafts hall) on Casanova, E. Robert Schmitz will grant a piano scholarship for five weeks' study with him. Mr. Schmitz, distinguished French pianist, will arrive within the next few days to inaugurate his 17th annual summer master classes in Carmel. Piano teachers and students from many sections of the United States and Canada will be here to study with him.

The Schmitz scholarship will have a cash value of $150 and will also give the winner an opportunity for intimate association with one of the great musicians of the day. It will provide for four morning lessons a week for the five weeks' course.

Any promising student of the piano may enter the competition, and should submit applications at once to the Schmitz Scholarship secretary, General Delivery, Carmel, giving name, address and age.

SOCIETY PINE NEEDLES LOCALS

THE presence of guest artists and distinguished auditors in the village during the Bach Festival inspired no end of small, informal gatherings as well as a number of large parties during the week. Climax of these was Noel Sullivan's large reception, given at Normandie Inn Sunday night following the final Festival concert at Carmel Mission. About 200 people attended, including all who participated actively in the week of music, and many of Mr. Sullivan's other friends. Mr. Sullivan was one of the soloists at the Sunday night concert. A lavish supper was served to the guests, and brief talks were made by Bernard Callery, who introduced and congratulated Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous, producers of the highly successful enterprise; by Miss Denny, by Sascha Jacobinoff, the festival director, and by Mr. Sullivan. It was an occasion for many happy congratulations, and of final reunion for the men and women who have worked together for many weeks.

On Friday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Matthias gave a large party in their Carmel Point home at which Lawrence Strauss, tenor soloist of the Festival, graciously sang a group of Schubert songs, with Ralph Linsley accompanying him at the piano. Among the guests who enjoyed this opportunity to hear the famed leider singer informally were: Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers and their sons, Garth and Donnan, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Newell, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burk, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dickinson, Dr. and Mrs. Mast Wolfson, Mrs. Joseph Hooper, Mrs. Marian Stebbins, Mrs. Fritz Wurzmann, Mrs. Robert Legge, Mrs. Herman Gardner of New York City, Mrs. Paul Dougherty, Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, Mrs. Whitney Palache, Mrs. Wellington Clark, Mrs. William Sloane Coffin, Mrs. F. W. Blanchard, Mrs. Frank Coates (Los Angeles), Tamara Morgan, Olga Steeb, Calista Rogers, Miss Virginia Hale, Miss Grace Graham, Miss Mary Jepp, Dene Denny, Hazel Watrous, Dora Comstock, Frank Wickman, Noel Sullivan, Creighton Pasmore, Victor Trerice, Gordon Wallace, F. W. Newhall, Laidlaw Williams and John Palache. Mrs. Matthias was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Ingalls and Miss O'Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthias gave an informal picnic luncheon Sunday at their place in the Highlands, for Sara Bard Field and Col. Charles Erskine Scott Wood, who were here for the final concerts. Col. Wood has returned to Los Gatos, but his charming wife remained this week as Mrs. Matthias' guest. Other guests at this party were: Mr. and Mrs. Robinson Jeffers, Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, Noel Sullivan, his week-end guests, Henri Deering and Richard Halliburton, and Mario Ramirez.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams gave a farewell party Monday evening for Sascha Jacobinoff, who left Tuesday for Los Angeles. He will return to Carmel this week-end, just long enough to prepare for departure for his home in Philadelphia. Mr. Jacobinoff, Mrs. Robert Nagler, Miss May Grubgeld and Theodor Gilbert were dinner guests of the Williams and later, the party was joined by Mr. and Mrs. Hal Garrott, Mrs. Ross C. Miller and Dr. John Ferry.

In celebration of the birthdays of her mother, Mrs. Carol Edwards, and of Miss Frances Farrington, June Delight Canoles gave a party at her home Monday afternoon. Though the birthday feature of the affair had not been announced to the guests, they guessed what was in the wind, and surprised the honorees with many beautiful bouquets which converted the house into a bower of bloom. In this pleasant setting, the guests passed the afternoon over their knitting, at the close of which Mrs. Canoles served delicious refreshments. In addition to the two guests of honor, those present were: Mrs. G. F. Beardsley, Mrs. M. C. Wyman, Mrs. Everett Smith, Miss Harriet Pierce, Miss Helen M. Pierce, Mrs. Katherine MacFarland Howe, Miss Agnes Williston, Mrs. D. E. Nixon, Mrs. C. E. Newton, Mrs. Jessie Askew, Miss Emeline Harrington, Mrs. Henry J. Hollison, Mrs. Mary L. Dummage, Mrs. Irving Gansel, Mrs. Joe Klein, Mrs. Homer Bodley and Mrs. L. S. Slevin.

Richard Halliburton, the young writer of travel and adventure, and Henri Deering, the pianist who gave a concert during a longer visit here last year, were week-end guests of Noel Sullivan, attending the Sunday night Festival concert at the Mission, and Mr. Sullivan's party afterwards. Mr. Deering came west recently to fill radio and concert engagements.

Rifka Iventosch, one of the guest artists at last year's Bach Festival, who is now playing under Ernst Bacon in the WPA orchestra in the city and is appearing as a soloist as well, was here for the week-end and attended the week-end concerts.

Feg Murray, noted Southern California cartoonist, has completed a week's vacation in Carmel. He was president of the Stanford class of 1918 and a member of the 1924 Olympic track team. His movie cartoons entitled "Seein' Stars" are syndicated features appearing in Hearst and other papers throughout the country. He and his family have enjoyed their first stay in Carmel while occupying a cottage on Camino Real.

Mrs. E. F. Kehr has returned from a six-weeks' trip as far east as Kentucky. On the return journey she was accompanied by her sister, Miss Virginia Taylor of Louisvile, Ky., who plans to remain here permanently, and by Dr. Kehr's mother, Mrs. E. M. Kehr of Watertown, Wis., who will make an extended visit.

After visiting friends here for two weeks, Miss Claire Golding has returned to her home in San Francisco.

Folk Dance Class at Highlands Inn

The English Folk Dance Society of the Westcoast is establishing itself this year at the Highlands Inn, Carmel Highlands, from August 3 to 15. Beside their regular daily classes in Morris, Country, and Sword dancing, they will hold two evening classes a week, on Tuesdays and Fridays at 8:30, to which beginners and enthusiasts of all ages are invited. Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons at 2 o'clock there will be a class for boys and girls between 8 and 14 years.

On Saturday, August 1st, at 8:30 p. m. there will be a folk dance party at Highlands Inn.

A short lecture on the history and use of the dances will be given by Mr. Gene Gowing, the West Coast Representative of the English Folk Dance Society of America. He and his pupils will then demonstrate some of the dances, after which everyone will have an opportunity to do some simple dances. Everyone interesting in Folk Dancing is cordially invited to attend the party.—Adv.

Blanche Matthias on O'Shea Exhibit

AFTER visiting the Del Monte art gallery, Blanche Matthias wrote an appreciation, "John O'Shea's exhibition at the Del Monte Art Gallery. But mostly about Carlotta." Mrs. Matthias, resident of Carmel Point and heading the list of Carmelites knowing "interesting people," is a former art editor of the Chicago Examiner and was also a weekly contributor to the Chicago Evening Post's art magazine.

Her review follows:

Life has concentrated for Carlotta in the remote recess of spirit. There she is as expressive as the pattern of her experience permits. Not bowed with grief but holding it sternly and uncomplainingly within the thin case of her body Carlotta has covered herself against lighter more fragile emotions. Yet it was not her choice that compelled, but her necessity. For beneath the tranquility of her acceptance there is no austerity but a tenderness and human yearning that communicate her heart as well as her spirit to the imagination.

How refreshingly she has been painted! With what skill, freedom from attempted decoration and lack of flat color. As with Carlotta so with the reverently kneeling figures in At Mass and in the striking boldness of Bebedor one finds the verity of John O'Shea, and the impulse which has impelled him to complete experiment after experiment of himself as creator and artist and as human being.

It is useless to compare these paintings as I heard a visitor do, to the Chinese, or to link them to contemporary movements. Rather approach them negatively, realizing that there are no layers of insincerity, imitation or unresolved seeing for us to plow through. Then only, can our own experience begin.

Fire Hydrants on Ocean Are Tested

Fire hydrants along the new main on Ocean avenue were given an official test Wednesday afternoon in the presence of M. K. Bliss, engineer for the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific. To the eye of the layman there appeared to be plenty of kick to the water supply, both volume and pressue in abundance, and a great improvement over the situation before the water company laid the new main. The official verdict will not be rendered until Mr. Bliss has time to do a little trigonometry on the situation. Present at the demonstration were Alger Fast, manager of the water company, Fire Commissioner Bernard Rowntree, and B. W. Adams and Bill Askew of the fire department.

George Eardley was a commercial visitor in Carmel this week.
